60 FRED LASSLETT RESERVE Local pre-teen & early teen Space Local Teen & Young Adult Space

A Pocket park right next to Heidelberg train station. Surrounded by local cafes, food shops, and retail.
The whole reserve is highly visible from the surrounding environment. It has great access to all amenities needed for a youth space: food shops, a bus stop and train station, toilets and drinking water. It is also close to both high school and primary school.
Incidental skate elements and lighting installations were found in this park.
It is a great meeting point, pause point, and a place to stay and occupy. And it has great potential to become a better play space for all age groups. Given the existing skate-related context, future elements could consider: upgrading the existing skateable features, informal parkour elements(which could be used as seats and street furniture), and an art exhibition space.

61 BURGUNDY ST UNDER THE BRIDGE Local Teen & Young Adult Space

A tiny resting pocket under the railway line along Burgundy St. This site is right next to the train station and connected to the main retail street.This space could be designed to accommodate more functions for young people. Iis a great spot to rest, hang out, or wait for friends.
Whilst the existing infrastructures could remain, such as the retaining walls, plantings, etc. Some additional elements could add value and increase this space's overall function and recreational opportunity. Young people love incidental recreational spaces, and urban space like this is always occupied by groups of teens and young adults at different times of the day.
Future youth facilities to consider: Shade structure, informal seats and tables, installations for outdoor art displaying/exhibition.
